(Card 2)
There are slight variations in the subtitles of the earlier volumes.
Reports for 1848-55 are numbered 34-10th; other reports are unnum-bered.
The first report was submitted to Congress in 1847. Annual reports were printed in pamphlet form up to 1853, but in the volume for that year the essential portion of the contents of the preceding seven reports was reprinted and this is now considered as the first of a set of Smithsonian reports. cf. Annual report, 1886, pt. 1, p. 487.
Fourth report includes "Appendix ... report on the public libraries of the United States of America, January 1, 1850. By Charles C. Jewett."
Beginning with 1854, the reports are published in two annual volumes, one being the report of the Smithsonian institution, the other the report of the U. S. National museum. For the latter see U. S. National museum.

Smithsonian miscellaneous collections ... v. 1—Washington, The Smithsonian institution, 1862—
v. illus., plates (part col.) ports, maps, facsim. 23¹cm.
The series of Miscellaneous collections is intended to embrace all the publications issued directly by the Smithsonian institution in octavo form (except the Annual report) though there are occasional octavo publications which are not included in the series. The articles composing the volumes have separate title-pages and pagination, and are frequently pub. years before their combination into volumes. cf. Sm. misc. coll. pref. to each volume.
Vols. 45, 47, 48, 50 and 52 were pub. as "Quarterly issue, v. 1-5, 1903-10," designed as a medium for the early publication of the results of researches and for reports of a preliminary nature; this form of publication was discontinued after v. 52 (see card 3).

Smithsonian institution.
U. S. National museum.

"By its act of incorporation (1846) the Smithsonian institution was made the custodian and the only lawful place of deposit of all objects of art and of foreign and curious research and all objects of natural history, plants and geological and mineralogical specimens belonging to the United States. In 1858 the collections of the Wilkes exploring expedition and various government surveys were transferred from the Patent office to the institution, and appropriation was made by Congress for their care and maintenance. The name, National museum, first appears in an act of Congress in 1875, although it had then been in popular use for several years. In 1876, at the close of the Centennial exposition at Philadelphia, large collections from the exhibits of foreign governments were secured for the museum, and Congress made provision for the erection of a separate building which was opened to the public in 1881."—Handbook of learned societies and institutions. Previous to 1881 statement as to the National museum was given only in the report of the secretary of the Smithsonian institution. The separate reports of the assistant secretary in charge of the museum for 1881-1883 were published first in the Smithsonian report but afterwards issued separately; from 1884 to 1887 they formed part 2 of the Smithsonian report; since 1888 they have been published entirely independently. The report since 1888 has been published entirely independently. The statements from 1885 to date in the Smithsonian reports cited above are summaries of the full reports.

Monthly, forming 2 vols. a year.
The society organized the "Congreso científico latino americano" held in Buenos Aires in 1898, and the "Congreso científico internacional americano" held in the same city in 1910; the results of these congresses (organization, membership, etc., and some of the papers) were published in the Anales, v. 45, 1898, and v. 69-70, 1910.
Biographies and bibliographies of members are included in many of the volumes. Lists of members are usually given on covers of the numbers.
